

Records and Statistics

by Seamus J. King

The collation of results of West championship finals since 2000, published in the Convention Handbook, is intended to provide clubs with a perspective on how they have been progressing during the period. The information before that date is available from J. J. Kennedy's comprehensive West Tipperary G.A.A History, which was published in 2001. Every club secretary and P.R.O. should have a copy as the history is the ultimate reference work for anything relating to the division from its foundation in 1930.

In the course of this short article I have done an analysis of the results since 2000. I have put together the number of times a club has qualified for a West final and the number of times the final has been won. I have done this across all the championships, senior, intermediate, junior A, junior B, under-21A, under-21 B, Under-21 C (when it was played), minor A, minor B and minor C (when it was played). I have ignored the O'Donoghue Cup in football and the Crosco Cup in hurling.

Football Results

For instance, to take Aherlow as an example, as it comes top of the list alphabetically in the division.

In senior football Aherlow qualified for the final on eight occasions and won five. It didn't play in intermediate football, In junior A it qualified three times but didn't win. In junior B it was more successful, qualifying twice and winning twice. In under-21 A it qualified six times and won four times. In under-21 B the result was three qualifications and two victories. In under-21 C there was one qualification and one victory. In minor A there were two qualifications and one success. In minor B three qualifications and one success and in minor C one qualification and one success.

Putting all that information together gives the number of qualifications as twenty-nine and the number of successes as seventeen, which gives the club a success rate of 59% in finals.

Analysing Arravale in the same way the results are as follows: qualifications 36, successes 20, 56%.

Cappawhite had 14 qualifications, 4 successes, or a 29% success rate.

Cashel King Cormacs had 15 qualifications, 6 successes or a 38% success rate.

Clonoulty-Rossmore qualified 11 times, had 4 successes or 36%

Eire Óg qualified 25 times, won 10 finals or 40%.

Emly qualified 12 times, had 3 successes or a 25% rate.

Galtee Rovers qualified 35 times, had 20 successes or a 57% success rate

Golden-Kilfeacle had 18 qualifications, 9 successes or 50%

Kickhams qualified 12 times, won on 9 occasions for a 75% success rate.

Lattin-Cullen qualified 10 times, won 6 for a 60% success rate.

Rockwell Rovers had 31 qualifications and 20 successes for a 65% success rate.

Rosegreen qualified on 10 occasions with 6 successes or 60%.

Sean Treacys qualified on 17 occasions and won 6 times for a 32% success rate, Solohead had 8 qualifications and 2 successes for a 25% success rate.

I was a bit arbitrary in my treatment of combo teams giving credit to only one half of the combination and basing my decision on what I thought was the stronger part of the team. Not very scientific I will admit and I am putting my hands up! However, it shouldn't effect the overall result in any significant way.

Statistics

It has been stated that there are Lies, damned lies and statistics. It is also believed that you can prove anything with statistics and in this case the finding above 'proves' that Kickhams are the most successful football club statistically in the division! Of course we have to take cognisance of the fact that Kickhams qualified for only a third the number of places in finals as Arravale Rovers or Galtee Rovers.

Another way to look at the results is to claim that Arravale Rovers is the most successful club having qualified for 36 finals, closely followed by Galtee Rovers with one less. An interesting observation is how close the success rate of the three major football clubs Aherlow, Arravale Rovers and Galtee Rovers, are with a 59%, 56% and 57% success rate respectively.

Hurling Results

Following the same system as above the analysis of the hurling record since 2000 produced these results, starting again with Aherlow.

Aherlow had 17 qualifications and 7 successes, giving the club a 41% success rate.

Arravale Rovers had the very same - 17 qualifications, 7 successes and a 41% success rate.

Cappawhite had 21 qualifications, 9 successes for 43%.

Cashel King Cormacs had 16 qualifications, 6 successes and a 37% success rate.

Clonoulty-Rossmore qualified 42 times, won 26 for a 62% success rate.

Rivals Eire Óg had 28 qualifications, 18 successes for a 64% success rate.

Emly had 16 qualifications, 8 successes for a 50% success rate.

Galtee Rovers had 17 qualifications but 15 victories for an 88% success rate.

Golden-Kilfeacle had 18 qualifications and 7 successes for a 39% success rate.

Kickhams had 30 qualifications with 11 successes for a 37% success rate.

Lattin-Cullen had 11 qualifications with 8 successes giving them a 73% success rate.

Rockwell Rovers had 14 qualifications with 7 successes for a 50% success rate.

Sean Treacys qualified on 17 occasions, had 7 successes for a 41% success rate.

Solohead had 10 qualifications with 2 victories for a 20% success rate.

Some Comments

Referring back to what I said about statistics above, these figures 'prove' that Galtee Rovers are the most successful hurling club in the division with an 88% success rate. What it fails to take into consideration is the number of times they qualified, fewer than half the number of Clonoulty-Rossmore. On the other hand it shows, on the basis of these records, that Galtee Rovers are difficult to beat once they do get to a final.

Lattin-Cullen will also perk up with their result. Again, they may not have got to finals that often but they are a club to be reckoned with once they do with a 73% success rate.

Another observation that can be made is on the results for the Kickham Club. They had a 75% success rate in the football results but only half that in the hurling results. Can we see them calling an EGM to decide on their future as a hurling or a football club?
